Description

Bronze Sculpture of a Gladiator, 19th Century, Grand Tour Period. This elegant 19th-century bronze sculpture, typical of the Grand Tour, depicts a Roman gladiator in a dynamic and powerful pose. The figure, finely cast in bronze, rests on a marble plinth, itself set upon a wooden base. It testifies to exceptional craftsmanship and great anatomical precision. An emblematic example of Grand Tour art, it reflects the 19th-century fascination with classical antiquity and heroic themes. Dimensions: Height 56 cm, Width 26 cm, Depth 24 cm. A refined and decorative piece, it embodies the neoclassical spirit of the Grand Tour period.
