Description

A pretty copper box in shape of a dove, identical to the one offered for sale by Dorotheum in Vienna in 2017 (not being specialists, I'm simply borrowing their description). (See last photo). Persian box with a dove-shaped lid. Made from chased copper in two parts and richly engraved of dense foliage. The dove wears a silver button depicting a bird on its head. On its back, above its tail, similar medallion. Its eyes are silver adorned with small decorative turquoise stones (glass or turquoise?). The dove rests on three riveted brass feet. No flaws!
