Description

An exceptional set of five rare large 18th-century Arte Povera panels forming a folding screen (the fabric hinges need replacing). The decorations on each panel, with their undulating tops, are particularly rich, depicting lively scenes characteristic of the mid-18th century; each scene has a different motif: - In the upper panels individually: Theatre, Science, Music and Painting, Floral Garden, Park. - In the lower panels individually: A different exotic animal scene, each time overlooking a lake with swans and gardening tools, surrounded by columns and trellises; this depiction of animals and countryside reflects the monarchy's fascination with these worlds. All panels are original, forming a five-panel folding screen, with their original varnished finish and Arte Povera motifs.
