Description

19th-century watercolor painting by Filippo Indoni. Filippo Indoni, an Italian watercolorist born in Rome in 1842 and who died in the same city in 1908, was a highly talented artist working in the realist style. He favored popular subjects, particularly peasants and workers, whom he often depicted with a touch of good humor. His aim was to portray the common people with dignity and pride. This painting is a prime example, depicting a young boy smoking a pipe with pride and joy. The quality of execution is superb, from the figure and his clothing to the setting, including the wall and a beautiful door. A magnificent work that has retained all its freshness and vibrancy. It measures 53 x 37 cm. Original giltwood frame. Period bubble glass. Shipping available within France and worldwide
