Description

A carved natural wood center table with a marble top. The table rests on four legs carved with acanthus leaves, fluting, and flower buds, joined by a stretcher in the center of which is a flaming urn decorated with sheep's heads. The table features scrolls on the apron and a breccia marble top from Aleppo set in its center. Stamped Pihouée under the table. The Pihouée company was founded in the early 1860s by Alexandre Pihouée. Following the eclectic style of the time, the company specialized in manufacturing seating in all styles. In 1872, the arrival of his son, Victor-David Pihouée, allowed the business to expand and offer not only seating but also furniture from all periods. In 1906, the Pihouée company closed its doors, and its assets were dispersed at auction.
