Description

Pair of table lamps, Gien, France, 19th century. Polychrome earthenware and gilt bronze, electrically mounted, contemporary shades. A remarkable pair of table lamps crafted from large polychrome earthenware bases from the Gien factory, dating from the 19th century. Each generously curved base features a floral and foliate decoration in vibrant colors--royal blue, celadon green, saffron yellow, and burnt orange--emblematic of the ornamental refinement of the renowned Loire Valley pottery. The finely chased gilt bronze mounts, with rocaille and foliate motifs, elegantly frame the ceramics, highlighting their silhouette with a touch of Second Empire splendor. The lamps are topped with contemporary pleated beige silk shades, edged with contrasting braid, custom-made with
