Description

Academic Male Nude - French School, circa 1940-1960. Description: A studio study depicting a standing male nude, seen from behind, holding a posing stick, in a studio interior identifiable by the cast-iron radiator, easel, and neutral background. The work of an academy-trained painter, it displays a solid anatomical mastery and subtle modeling of flesh tones. The original canvas bears a stamp on the reverse from a French fine art supplier (canvases & colors, Paris). There is also a handwritten inscription, "Maugham." This inscription, currently unidentified, could suggest the British painter Daphne Maugham Casorati (1897-1982), who was active in France and Italy during the first half of the 20th century. However, no formal evidence allows us to confirm this attribution at this stage.
