Description

Large watercolor by Marcel Poulet. Framed, under glass. Marcel Poulet, a French painter born in 1936 in Toucy, Yonne, draws his inspiration from the earth and natural materials of his region, Puisaye. From the 1960s onward, he abandoned oil painting for tempera, using local pigments and ochres to create abstract works focused on texture and sensation. True to his rural roots, he transforms the earth into a pictorial language, seeking the essential: an authentic, silent, and deeply rooted painting.
