16th-century German Two-handed Longsword

12 000 EUR

Period : 16th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Metal

Length : 128 cm

Description

German Two Handed Longsword 16th Century.This beautiful example of late medieval period long sword is a transitional sword bridging the gap between the evolution / form of the crucifix style swords of the medieval period and the two handed and hand and a half swords of the renaissance.This German Sword is Circa 1530.The sword which is in excellent condition is very light, maneuverable and robust.The hilt is comprised of a crucifix from with twisted guard and twisted pommel . The handle is wood with leather wrapping which is likely been replaced over its long life. The guard itself displays some light play which is quiet light.The blade is a long double edged blade with single fuller, the blade condition is good having signs of age in the form of oxidation and some contact areas and some

Dealer

Antiques Armoury
Antiques and Collectables
Tel : 0035699849540

Triq Enrico Naudi
L'iklin IKL Malta 1641

light de-lamination on the blade.Beautiful overall condition for a well balanced museum quality piece.Specifications:Overall Sword 128 CM