Free shipping within mainland France via La Poste or Mondial Relay. *Pewter cimarre in baluster form with a high foot, quarter-round bowl, domed lid with a tasseled thumb rest, and fixed handle. It has a hanging, bracket-shaped handle with lenticular attachments and is decorated with three sets of moldings. Trace of an illegible hallmark on the exterior base. Height: 25 cm. CHAMPAGNE (MONTIER-EN-DER?), Second half of the 18th century. Circular reinforcement at the top of the foot, visible in one of the photos. These vessels were used for serving wine at the table; the vast majority of these cimarres, of medieval inspiration, come from this Champagne region. The following centers produced this type of object intended for serving wine at the table, most
