Description

Refined pair of Venetian Directoire corner cabinets, crafted in solid cherry wood, with clean, balanced lines marking the transition from late 18th-century elegance to the early Neoclassical style. The design is distinguished by an upper double cornice featuring a row of small carved arches supporting the top moulding, a rare and sophisticated decorative solution. The slightly concave doors, shaped inward, display a warm, luminous patina and the precision of fine Venetian cabinetmaking. In good overall condition, with a sound structure. The lower parts of the legs have been replaced in a consistent restoration, and there are minor wear signs typical of age and use. One door shows a slight projection when closed, not affecting function. Dimensions: height 211 cm; sides 61 cm. For further
