Description

An elegant Japanese-inspired cabinet dating from the late 19th century, during the Second Empire/Napoleon III style. Crafted from finely carved mahogany and adorned with mother-of-pearl inlays, it reflects the Orientalist taste that was very fashionable in France during this period. This piece comprises several levels and small drawers, surmounted by a glazed cabinet, forming an asymmetrical composition typical of the Japanese style. The decoration is refined, the proportions balanced, and the wood patina particularly warm. Delivery is possible in France and abroad (Europe and international - quote upon request). Careful packaging and transport are ensured by a professional. Collection is possible on site by appointment. A beautiful period piece of furniture, rare on the
