farmhouses typical of the Dolomites. The huts, placed at different elevations along the mountainside, are depicted with realistic attention to detail: shingle roofs, balconies, and wooden structures perfectly integrated into the landscape. A low stone wall follows the line of the incline, suggesting ancient agricultural terracing.The green masses of meadows and forests contrast with the delicate hues of the distant peaks, creating a harmonious composition rich in atmospheric depth. The work conveys a strong sense of tranquillity, unspoiled nature, and visual balance.Restoration Information: Cleaning of the pictorial surface.Available with an 8 cm custom-made frame in antique fir wood, crafted in our workshop.
