Description

Set of 4 Brutalist-style chandeliers, Murano, 1960s
Period: 1960s
Origin: Murano
Materials: Iron and Murano glass
Description: Important series of four Brutalist-style pendant lamps, made in Murano in the 1960s. The wrought iron structures have an irregular, textured surface, typical of Brutalist design, enriched with elements in transparent and amber Murano glass. The contrast between the robustness of the metal and the refinement of the blown glass creates a sculptural effect of great expressive power. The lamps diffuse a warm, vibrant light, enhanced by the central amber shades that lend depth and character to the whole. Perfect for contemporary, industrial, or modernist interiors, these pendant lamps are a fine example of Murano artistic craftsmanship from the mid-twentieth
