Description

Louis XVI-Style Gilt-Bronze Mounted Mahogany Table àÉcrire France, Late 19th Century A fine Louis XVI-style writing table, the rectangular top inset with richly veined Brèche Violette marble within a gilt-bronze molded border. The mahogany frame is adorned with exceptionally detailed gilt-bronze mounts, including floral swags, rosettes, and classical trophies, reflecting the refined neoclassical taste of the period. The frieze is decorated with a central drawer featuring a chased gilt-bronze panel depicting playful putti in relief, framed by draped garlands. The four square, tapering legs are mounted with gilt-bronze appliques of laurel sprays, quivers, and torches, terminating in foliate sabots. This table exemplifies the Louis XVI revival style that flourished in Paris during the
