Pair Of Vintage Curtains Decorated With Exotic Fruits And Plants

430 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Linen

Description

These vintage curtains, with their fruit motif of apples, pineapples, and grapes framed by exotic plants and flowers, are absolutely charming! The fact that they are lined adds a touch of elegance and practicality, while the gathered heading tape and flat pleats at the top of each panel demonstrate careful craftsmanship and attention to detail. They seem like a lovely way to add an exotic touch to any room. Measuring 247 cm in length and 132 cm in width, these curtains are quite large, making them suitable for large windows or French doors. They should add a beautiful splash of color and pattern to a room, while also providing ample coverage. These vintage curtains could also be used to separate spaces or as a decorative element in an interior. They do indeed seem like a perfect choice for adding character to a dining room, kitchen, or conservatory. Their exotic fruit and flower pattern will bring a welcoming and vibrant atmosphere, particularly in spaces where colors and patterns can be emphasized. Dining Room: They could bring a touch of freshness and conviviality, complementing wooden furniture or country or vintage-style decor. Kitchen: Their bright pattern and texture could brighten the space while adding a touch of retro charm, especially if the kitchen has wrought iron elements or vintage details. Conservatory: The curtains would fit well in a conservatory, creating a pleasant and bright space while offering some privacy. They could be particularly attractive if the conservatory is surrounded by greenery or decorated in an exotic style. Ref. 120924
