Description

Antique painting signed P. Bouchaud, authentic Breton scene Breton women in the moor near a dolmen. Oil on canvas, signed lower right: P. Bouchaud (probably Prudent-Léon Bouchaud, 1817-1868), a Nantes painter known for his landscapes and seascapes. Charming Breton scene depicting a group of women in traditional headdresses walking across the moor, near a dolmen overlooking the sea. The artist employs a soft and harmonious palette, dominated by green, ochre, and bluish tones typical of the Breton coastal landscapes. The quick, vibrant brushstrokes convey a luminous and lively atmosphere, in the spirit of 19th-century regionalist painters. A beautiful and charming composition, typical of picturesque 19th-century Brittany, where tradition and wild nature
