Description

Rural landscape with a rooster and hens by the renowned Belgian painter Frans van Severdonck (1809 - Brussels - 1889). The Belgian painter Franz van Severdonck was born in Brussels, where he lived and worked his entire life. His formal training remains unknown, but his high level of compositional and technical skill suggests he received professional instruction. Franz van Severdonck was a master of animal subjects and created numerous compositions featuring sheep, horses, and chickens. His generally small-scale representations are highly sought-after collector's items on the international art market.
