Description

Floor lamp with a vertical main structure composed of multiple chrome-plated metal tubes. The upper part of the stem is arched and supports a single spherical diffuser. The diffuser is made of glass, with a translucent white base and surface pigmentation distributed in dark-colored spots (brown/burgundy). The circular base consists of a dark-colored central element and a chrome-plated outer ring. Additional bulbs can be inserted at the ends of the tubes. The power cord is located at the base. It is an example of Italian design that combines modern materials and futuristic shapes. The style is similar to that of brands such as Targetti Sankey or Mazzega of the time.
