Neo-Renaissance Style - Late 19th Century
An imposing carved wooden cabinet-secretary, crafted in the late 19th century in the Neo-Renaissance style. The façade is entirely decorated with geometric panels, deep moldings, rosettes, and ironwork, faithfully reproducing the ornamental vocabulary of the French Renaissance. The upper section, crowned with a richly sculpted curved pediment featuring vegetal motifs and a central emblem, opens onto a spacious storage area with a shelf. The central section consists of a carved drop-front revealing a functional interior. The lower section, with matching doors, offers additional storage.
