Description

Jacques Chevalier is a French painter renowned for the sensitivity and depth of his work. Born in the mid-20th century, he developed an early passion for light, nature, and the medium of paint. After studying at the École des Beaux-Arts, he gravitated towards a style of painting that is both expressive and poetic, blending rigorous drawing with spontaneous gestures. His work explores landscapes, faces, and human emotions, in a constant search for balance between realism and abstraction. The texture of colors, the vibration of light, and structured composition are central to his approach. Chevalier has exhibited extensively in France and abroad, notably in galleries in Paris, Lyon, Geneva, and Brussels. His paintings are now featured in numerous private and public collections.
