Description

Iranian kilim from the Fars region (southwest Iran), wool, circa 1960. Very good condition. Beautiful color harmony for this original kilim. On a raspberry 'abraché' background (changes in tone within the same color) are depicted black and orange medallions containing zoomorphic figures. Prominent borders frame the kilim's field: the 'Aleh Abassi' border*, the 'Running Water' border, and the 'Göl' motif. Bands on either side complete this beautiful, authentic kilim.* Aleh Abassi: tulip border. Running Water: flowing water representing life.  Göl or Gul: a small geometric medallion in the shape of a polygon, meaning 'flower' in Persian. The Gashghai confederation comprises various tribes. Some examples include the Bozorg Kashkuli (the tall ones), the Kuchek Kashkuli (the short ones),
