Description

DescriptonThis 1986 mixed-media work by Manuel Rufi Gibert showcases his mastery of geometric abstraction and layered texture. Combining muted blues, purples, and greys with newspaper fragments, Rufi Gibert creates a dialogue between form and text. Bold orange accents enliven the subdued palette, while contrasts of matte and glossy surfaces add depth. Balancing structure and spontaneity, the piece blends mid-century modernist sensibilities with expressive materiality, its warm wood veneer grounding the composition in both tactility and refinement.ArtistManuel Rufi Gibert (b. 1930) is known for his abstract compositions that merge painting and collage with architectural precision.Artist DetailsA Catalan artist active throughout the mid to late 20th century, Manuel

Rufi Gibert often worked at the intersection of geometric abstraction and material experimentation. His practice reflects the influence of postwar European avant-garde movements, blending formality with texture through layered surfaces and typographic collage.MovementsGeometric AbstractionArtist Influenced byInfluenced by Kurt Schwitters, Antoni Tàpies, and the Catalan Constructivist tradition.Frame ConditionPresented in a black minimalist frame with warm wood veneer mount; subtle patina and age-related wear enhance its authenticity.Packing, Shipping and insurance from Barcelona calculated at checkout.UK, EU, USA & Canada: EUR200For all other destinations email: hi@moderndecorative.comFor item purchase and better viewing.
