Description

Superb period bronze sculpture with a brown and gold patina, depicting a majestic pheasant perched on a rock. Attributed to Léon Bureau (1866-1906), an animal sculptor renowned for the finesse and naturalism of his models. The piece bears: o the signature BUREAU engraved on the base, o the circular foundry mark of Société des Bronzes de Paris, o the edition number 1491 stamped under the base. Very fine quality of execution: detailed plumage, dynamic pose, elegant balance. Original patina, slight natural wear consistent with age. Solid bronze, a piece with a striking decorative presence
