"Profile of a Man and a Bull" by Jean Cocteau, Limoges porcelain plate, black glaze on a white background, Éditions d'Art. Perfect condition
Diameter 23.5 cm Signed JC within the decoration and dated 1962, Éditions D'Art Promo Ceram on the reverse. COCTEAU Jean (1889-1963) Novelist, painter, filmmaker...
Cocteau was a complete artist. In 1957, his meeting with Marie-Madeleine Jolly and Philippe Madeline opened the door to ceramics for him. In 1958, he exhibited in their workshop in Villefranche-sur-Mer. Until his death, more than 300 works were created there. On the vases, plates, and other pottery emerge lyre-like women, angels, and harlequins inspired by Greek mythology and a fairy-tale world, through which his poetic genius is expressed.
