Description

These exceptional Louis XIV style armchairs date from the late 19th century, a period when French historical styles experienced a revival. They exhibit typical Louis XIV characteristics with their giltwood frames, carved armrests, and imposing structure reminiscent of the furniture of the Sun King's court. These armchairs were particularly prized by the aristocracy and upper middle class for their majestic appearance and their association with the prestige of Versailles. Collectors and enthusiasts of French period furniture value these pieces for their exceptional craftsmanship, elegant proportions, and ability to bring a touch of nobility to classic interiors. The gilding is original, beautifully patinated, and shows some minor losses. The upholstery is antique and in very good condition. Delivery is
