Description

? 8 Teak Chairs from the 60s-70s - Charles Mackintosh Style for a Large Dining Table ????

Imagine a long, set table, light gliding across the wood, glasses gently clinking... Around it, these 8 teak chairs from the 60s-70s stand like a small, elegant army. Their graphic, openwork backs recall the aesthetic of Charles Rennie Mackintosh, with vertical, geometric lines that structure the space and give the dining room a real presence. ????

Comfort matches their style. Each seat has been completely reupholstered by a master upholsterer: comfortable padding, thick fabric, with a subtle and contemporary pattern. You sit down, and you'll want to stay. You don't need to do anything: the chairs arrive ready to take center stage around your table, whether it's made of solid wood, black metal, or glass. ????

The warm, honey-colored teak beautifully bears the patina of decades while remaining solid and stable. The high backs (105 cm) elongate the room's silhouette, like a Mackintosh-inspired frieze that complements the table. The wide seat (45 x 42 cm, 50 cm high) suits all body types and a standard-height table: perfect for long meals, laughter, and confidences. Eight chairs promise large family gatherings: Christmas, birthdays, dinners with friends... No need to mix and match: everything is already harmonious and coherent, with a very chic 60s-70s twist. They would also be ideal for a guesthouse or an intimate restaurant that wants to offer its guests a warm, elegant, and slightly retro atmosphere.
