Description

DescriptionThis work, executed in finely applied gouache on silk, presents an intimate interior scene rendered with the clarity and decorative precision associated with Qing Dynasty workshop painting. Two figures stand beside a lacquered table supporting a deep blue vase filled with delicately painted blossoms, their garments defined by crisp contour lines and controlled tonal shading. The silk ground produces a soft, matte surface that enhances the subtle transitions of colour across the robes and floral elements. The patterned floor, stylised furnishings, and elegant posture of each figure reinforce the piece's balanced composition and refined ornamental character. The painting illustrates the hallmark qualities of 19th-century courtly and export-oriented ateliers--meticulous brushwork,
