Description

A superb pair of Vieux Paris porcelain vases, dating from the 19th century, in a richly crafted Rocaille style. Each vase features a high-relief decoration depicting a romantic scene: a young man on one vase and a young woman on the other, both finely modeled and hand-polychromed. The vases display a dynamic silhouette typical of the Rococo style: scrolls, volutes, cartouches adorned with painted bouquets, gilt highlights, and a vibrant wine-red background that showcases the quality of the porcelain and the delicacy of the decoration. Elegant Parisian work, representative of Vieux Paris production, sought after for its decorative charm and refinement. Height: 34 cm Length: 28 cm Note: one of the vases has a restoration on the outer rim (see photo).
