Description

This acrylic work by José Barceló Albaladejo presents an abstract composition built through layered, gestural fields of blue, green, and muted ochre. The structure emerges from intersecting chromatic planes, creating balance between opacity and translucency across the surface. Broad directional strokes establish energy and movement, while softer blended passages introduce tonal harmony. Barceló Albaladejo's approach reflects his late-20th-century exploration of colour relationships and spatial tension, favouring expressive mark-making over descriptive form. The interplay of cool and warm tones generates depth without relying on representation, aligning with the traditions of Spanish lyrical abstraction. The overall effect is a refined modernist
