Description

An elegant cherrywood veneer side table dating from the Restoration period, early 19th century. It perfectly embodies the classical taste and craftsmanship of this iconic era. This accent piece features a circular top inlaid with a gray Sainte Anne marble slab veined with white, lending a noble, mineral touch that contrasts with the warmth of the wood. The curved tripod base offers a graceful and balanced silhouette, typical of the Restoration style. A stretcher discreetly and elegantly connects the three legs, reinforcing stability while adding a subtle decorative dimension. Each leg terminates in a finely chiseled gilt bronze claw, a precious detail that underscores the overall refinement. This piece is ideal for showcasing a sculpture, lamp, or vase, while adding a touch of historical sophistication
