Description

A genuine and large gilt bronze officer's clock with glass on all sides. Mechanically operated, it strikes the hours and half-hours and includes an alarm. It also displays the date and day of the week in apertures. Signed Tavernier in Paris. A high-quality Parisian piece from the early Louis XVI period. The mechanism is in working order; the escapement has been replaced. Note: a small chip on the dial and a slightly bent decoration at the top. Free shipping within France and the European Union.
