Description

A sumptuous wrought iron and repoussé sheet metal floor lamp, topped with a charming lantern. It is illuminated by a single light, using a bayonet socket. Our large light fixture rests on a wrought iron tripod base, ending in a scrollwork design. The central shaft is adorned with a braid made of double-stranded, twisted wire. This braid wraps around the entire central stem. This stem is topped with a pretty lantern crowned and adorned with embossed sheet metal palm leaves. Beautiful ornamentation composed of strings of beads in different colors, water droplets, and large plaques completes this decoration. Our light fixture has been lacquered in antique gold and has retained its original color. The wiring is recent. A very fine piece of handcrafted work from the 1950s. Note a tiny bit of wear on the inner edge of one
