Description

Magnificent large display cabinet in the transitional style (between Louis XV and Louis XVI) made of finely carved wood with a gray/green patina. Of very high quality, it dates from the late 19th century. Completely restored in our workshop, it is in very good condition. This piece, which can be used as a sideboard, bookcase, or cabinet of curiosities, has three doors and two pull-out shelves in the lower section. The upper section features numerous adjustable shelves. The cabinet is easily disassembled. Its dimensions in cm: 200 x 56 x 238 (height). This item is also available for viewing at my shop in Belz, Morbihan, in southern Brittany, where you can collect it if you wish.
