Description

Magnificent and rare Art Deco glass soliflore vase with a subtle gradient of pink and green, known as Rubina Verde. The base forms a stylized six-pointed star or snowflake. The very slender body, with its distinctive color, is reminiscent of a rhubarb stalk. Each of the six projecting angles is ribbed along its entire length, extending to the neck. There is a very small chip on the base, at the tip of one of the six points (see the last close-up photo).
