Description

Bronze Bust of a Young Man - Signed T.
Campajola

Italy, early 20th century
Dimensions: Height 21.5
cm - base diameter 6.7 cm

Materials: patinated bronze and dark marble base Elegant bronze bust depicting a young man with a smiling, natural expression, sculpted with remarkable sensitivity in capturing the facial features, the delicacy of the gaze, and the subtle dynamism of the tilt of the head. The artist pays particular attention to the texture of the hair, the folds of the shirt, and the soft rendering of the volumes.

The work is signed "T. Campajola" on the left side of the bust, attributable to the sculptor active in Italy in the first half of the 20th century, known for portraits characterized by an intimate and spontaneous realism.

The sculptor "T. Campajola" is Tommaso Campajola, an artist active in Naples between the 19th and 20th centuries, who lived approximately between 1890 and 1968.

The sculpture is mounted on a solid black marble base, turned and polished, which lends balance and a monumental presence despite its modest size.

Condition: very good, with original patina and normal signs of aging consistent with its age.

An ideal work for collectors of 20th-century Italian bronzes and portraiture.
