Description

Butchery Scene. Charcoal on paper, 1951. Image dimensions: 22 × 14 cm. Framed dimensions: 35.5 × 28 cm. This charcoal drawing depicts a butchery/slaughterhouse scene, where the artist captures a line of hanging carcasses and several male figures in coats and aprons. The dense and highly contrasted composition reflects a perspective deeply rooted in post-war social realism. The line is nervous, rapid, almost expressionistic, capturing the characteristic atmosphere of the meat industry in the 1950s. The work is signed lower left "M..." and dated 51, i.e., 1951. Technique: charcoal/grease pencil on paper slightly yellowed with age. Wooden frame, under glass, antique mount. Good overall condition for a drawing from the 1950s. Paper slightly sunned and some minor foxing in the margins (not visible).
