Description

DescriptionThis vintage hand-knotted rug features the bold geometric medallion and deep crimson palette characteristic of traditional Hamadan weavings. The composition centres on a stepped central motif set against a densely patterned field filled with stylised floral elements, angular vine forms, and small tribal devices. Strong contrasts of cherry red, navy, ivory, and touches of burnt orange create a rich visual rhythm, while the crisp borders balance repeating rosettes and diamond motifs with precision. The wool pile shows the tight, resilient weave associated with village production, giving the piece both decorative strength and long-term durability. Its classic layout and saturated tones make it highly versatile for refined, character-driven interiors.ArtistHand-knotted by
