Description

A distinguished pair of large Royal Worcester Egyptian musicians modelled by James Hadley and dated 1893. The tall, elegant forms create a strong interior presence, closer to sculptural accents than decorative porcelain. One figure plays a lute-like instrument; the companion raises a tambourine in a quiet rhythmic gesture.Both are incised "Hadley" on the base and carry Worcester printed marks, the Registered Design number and the shared model number 1084. The calm faces, warm ivory palette and soft modelling exemplify Worcester's finest late nineteenth-century output.MeasurementsMale: height 33.5 cm; base 14.8 cmFemale: height 32 cm; base 14.7 cmConditionExcellent condition, with only faint natural rubbing to gilding visible on close inspection.Shipping & PackagingFully tracked
