Description

Auguste Heiligenstein glazed earthenware trinket dish with hare decoration. Rectangular shape. Dimensions: 14.8 cm x 10.7 cm, Height: 2 cm. Three small chips on the rim. Very fine glazing. Signed on the back. Auguste Heiligenstein (1891-1976) began his apprenticeship at a very young age as a glassmaker, notably with Legras. He was initially an excellent decorator on glass and porcelain. He worked at Baccarat as a designer. In the 1920s, he became director and then artistic advisor at Leune. He married Odette Chatrousse, a ceramicist. From 1923 onwards, he exhibited as a ceramicist and especially as a decorator of translucent enamels outlined in gold (a technique unique to him). In the 1920s and 30s, he remained an artistic advisor to major glassmaking houses while simultaneously
