Description

Antique Pembroke table
Drop-leaf table in stained oak and great patina
It has a drawer with a brass pull which suggests it may have served as a work table or writing table. The pull on the other side is purely decorative.
The leaves are held up by swing brackets underneath the top
Victorian turned legs, slender with ring turnings near the top and bottom
The table top is 71 by 42 cm when folded
The extension pieces are 24 cm each so maximum width is 90 cm, 71 cm high
English craftsmanship from the 19th century
