Description

A charming oil on canvas attributed to Louis-Édouard Garrido, depicting an elegant woman in a dark dress with green highlights during an autumnal stroll. The scene, punctuated by picturesque architecture in the background, evokes Parisian gardens or the bourgeois promenades of the Belle Époque. Louis-Édouard Garrido, a French painter born in Spain, is renowned for his Parisian scenes, female portraits, and Impressionist compositions. His style, influenced by late Impressionism and early 20th-century society art, often features elegant female figures in refined settings. In good condition, relined. Dimensions: - Height 130 cm - Width 98 cm. Elegant painting, oil on canvas, 19th century, French school, Louis Édouard Garrido, Belle Époque painting, portrait of an
