Description

Pair of circular wall or ceiling lights produced by Maison Lunel around 1955. Each light features a cream-lacquered metal structure with regular perforations, encircled by gilt brass. The opaline rhodoid diffuser emits a soft, even light, emblematic of Lunel's expertise in 1950s domestic lighting. The central polished brass knob completes the design, highlighting the geometric rigor and understated elegance characteristic of the company. Manufacturer: Maison Lunel, France, circa 1955.
