Description

A small Empire-style mahogany and mahogany veneer writing desk. Early 19th century work. Topped with a 2 cm thick marble slab in shades of black and dark gray, which is intact. It opens with a wide drawer located just below the marble. The front opens with a drop-front featuring a mercury mirrored base (note some signs of wear). Covered with a dark green leather top, it reveals five small drawers in total, as well as a storage niche. At the bottom, a wide drawer in the apron rests on pilasters joined by a beautiful stretcher. Ball feet at the front and straight feet at the back. Perfectly stable. A beautifully crafted piece of furniture with ideal dimensions that combines elegance and functionality.
