Description

Piedmontese sideboard in walnut 18th century
18th-century Piedmontese sideboard, made of solid walnut, a material favored in aristocratic and bourgeois furniture of the period for its strength, fine workability, and warm color tone.
Description Type: two-door sideboard
Period: 18th century (1700s)
Origin: Piedmont area
Material: solid walnut
Dimensions: H 110 × W 155 × D 53 cm
Formal and construction characteristics
Linear and compact structure, designed according to the austere but refined canons of 18th-century Piedmontese taste. Two front doors decorated with embossed panels, carved with faceted geometric motifs, creating the chiaroscuro effects typical of the local Baroque tradition still in use in the 18th century.
