Description

A two-part buffet in solid oak, richly carved in the Renaissance style. The piece is distinguished by its impressive carving: friezes of fruit and foliage at the top, twisted columns, finely detailed panels depicting allegorical motifs, and exquisitely sculpted relief frames. The upper section is closed by two arched doors, adorned with ivory-colored pleated curtains, lending elegance and softness to the piece. The lower section features two doors carved with medallions, as well as a large drawer in the front. Features: Solid oak, exceptional carving, Renaissance style, twisted columns, decorative friezes and medallions, upper section with original curtains, generous dimensions, very striking presence in any interior, antique piece in very good overall condition, a characterful piece,
