Description

We present this splendid bronze sculpture depicting a young jockey on horseback. The sculpture is signed on the side of the base, but the artist has not been identified. It likely dates back to the early 20th century. This impressively large bronze makes a strong visual impact on the viewer. Both the jockey and the horse feature strikingly realistic details; the jockey is wearing typical racing attire. The sculpture is highly dynamic; the horse is in motion, likely trotting or galloping slowly, while the jockey, intently focused, follows the horse's gait. The sculpture rests on a bronze base that simulates a meadow or soil, providing structure and aesthetically completing the work. This majestic bronze will not go unnoticed by your guests; its large size and artistic beauty can enrich any room in the house.
