Description

An elegant Chinese famille rose (fencai) porcelain vase, dating from the 19th century. The body is decorated with auspicious motifs: vases filled with flowers, scholars, and symbols of good fortune, painted in a delicate palette of pinks, greens, yellows, and turquoise, typical of late Qing dynasty production. The composition is dense and harmonious, with beautifully fine glazes and a rich border of geometric and ruyi motifs. Period: 19th century - Qing dynasty (probably late 19th century). Technique: Polychrome glazed porcelain - famille rose. Decoration: Vases, flowers, scholars' objects, symbols of longevity and auspiciousness. Ruyi motif on the upper border, Greek key pattern (leiwen) on the neck. Dimensions: 45 cm. Condition: A chip on the neck (see photo). A
