Description

Georges Jessen (La Louvière, 1892 - Uccle, 1963), Still Life with a Vase of Lilies, large signed oil on canvas. This luminous painting depicts a bouquet of fresh lilies in a blue opaline vase, alongside which, in a smaller vase, dandelions stand out, and on the table, a bouquet of daisies. The vivid colors stand out against a dark background. Georges Jessen was a Belgian painter who trained at the Academies of Mons (1915-1916) and Brussels under Jean Delville and Constant Montald. He was a professor at the Académie de Saint-Gilles from 1925 and its director from 1950 to 1960. He favored landscapes, flowers, portraits, and nudes. Good condition, small professional restoration on the top right background, practically invisible; in its original giltwood frame. Dimensions Canvas 80 x
