Description

Sculpture (after P.J. MENE) with exquisite chasing and a beautiful brown patina in excellent condition. The oval base is decorative and bears the signature P.J. MENE (no foundry mark). This finely crafted work, known as "Stallion, Right Foreleg Raised," embodies the elegance and vitality of its subject. Pierre-Jules Mêne (1810-1879) was a French sculptor, renowned for his animal sculptures, much like Barye. He distinguished himself through the finesse and realism of his bronze sculptures, primarily depicting horses, dogs, and hunting scenes.
